A Friend Indeed.

In the death of Mr. N. B. Bratton. Land other colored men, who had to do with him, lost one of the best friends we have ever known. I worked for and with Mr. Bratton for ten years for ten years.

He advised me in my business talations and told me how to live in relation to God and my fellow men.

He never took unfair advantage of anybody. He visited us when sick and helped us when in trouble.

Mr. Bratton was a goldenhearted gentleman and a Christian, and although I how to the will of God as Mr. Bratton would have me do, I want the world to have some idea of how I feel toward this splendid man.
